Welcome from the Mayor
City and County of San Francisco

Dear World Cities Culture Summit Delegates:

It is my great pleasure to welcome the World Cities Culture Summit to San Francisco! We are honored to host 90 delegates from 32 cities – the largest gathering of World Cities Culture Forum members to date.

Before being elected to office, I served as the Executive Director of one of the City’s Cultural Centers – the African American Art & Culture Complex – so I have a deep understanding and profound respect for the role that the arts play in enhancing civic life. As Mayor, I am committed to ensuring we have a strong and healthy arts community here in the city where I was born and raised. San Francisco is a city famous for its inclusiveness, tolerance and ingenuity. Throughout San Francisco’s rich history, the arts have always been an expression of the progressive values we hold dear.

The theme of this year’s World Cities Culture Summit is “Culture and New Technologies Transforming World Cities.” As home to a thriving technology sector and more nonprofit arts organizations and artists per capita than any other city in the United States, San Francisco offers the perfect setting for vibrant discussions about how urban centers can maintain their cultural identities in the face of rapid technological change.

We are proud of the work we are doing to sustain a healthy arts and culture sector, and we look forward to sharing some of our successful strategies. During your visit, you will have the opportunity to see firsthand how we are working closely with developers on robust community benefit packages through the Public Art Trust. This groundbreaking legislation provides additional arts funding through grants administered by the Arts Commission.

I would like to thank the Mayor of London’s Office and the World Cities Culture Forum team for helping us prepare this year’s Summit. I would also like to thank the City’s co-host, San Francisco Travel, and the participating organizations and cultural venues in San Francisco for their partnership in this special event. We hope you leave the Summit inspired by what you see in San Francisco, and that you come back and visit us again soon!

With warmest regards,

London N. Breed

Welcome to the 7th World Cities Culture Summit, in the amazing city of San Francisco.

It is great to welcome old friends and new members from Dublin, Helsinki, Nanjing and Oslo, to our growing network.

This year’s summit takes place in an exceptional city. San Francisco has a history of supporting progressive values, celebrating the city’s diversity and breadth of expression. It is both an engine of the US economy and a creative hub, as well as being home to one of the most significant tech sectors in the world. In San Francisco not only will you find America’s largest modern art museum, SFMOMA, which we will explore on our first day together, but also innovative models for sustainable gallery spaces such as the Minnesota Street Project.

The Summit in San Francisco is an invitation to explore what can be accomplished by bringing culture and technology together. As city leaders we are facing an unprecedented era of potential – potential to reach our citizens in new ways, to use data to make better decisions and to bring culture to people’s doorsteps.

Technology is changing expectations about how our city governments deliver services, and also shaping the possibilities of how we can engage with and listen to our citizens. However, this potential is not without its challenges. Technology is often held as the promise of the future – but we have to consider what are we, as city leaders, trying to achieve by bringing together culture and technology. At the Summit we will be exploring how technology is changing our cultural landscape, and how we can mobilise it to strengthen our cultural offer and participation, rather than increase isolation or widen inequalities.

As we come together over the next few days, we have an unparalleled opportunity to share our challenges and ideas. We have brought together the leading and most influential group of cultural officials in the world, all committed to championing culture in our cities as a powerful force to improve the lives of our citizens. Together we can inspire, problem solve and share ideas. The Summit is a truly open forum, where all leaders are encouraged to be open about the issues they are facing. This is both the value and uniqueness of our network.

It has been an exciting year for the World Cities Culture Forum, with the launch of our pilot Leadership Exchange Programme and developments in our policy strands, Making Space for Culture and Culture and Climate Change. We will also be publishing the third edition of our landmark World Cities Culture Report – the most comprehensive data on culture in world cities.

During the Summit we will look at how cities have learnt from one another through the Leadership Exchange Programme. We will hear about the exchanges, the insights and experiences and also how cities have evolved their own ideas and programmes as a result.

Our two workshop sessions will push forward the Forum’s ongoing policy work. In the Making Space for Culture workshop we will share progress on a toolkit for all cities. In our Culture and Climate Change workshop we will look at the intersection of technology, culture and climate change – prompting us to think more closely about where cultural city leaders can intervene.
I extend our warmest thanks to the Mayor of San Francisco, London N. Breed, to Tom DeCaigny, Director of Cultural Affairs, San Francisco Arts Commission (SFAC) and to Joe D'Alessandro and Howard Pickett, San Francisco Travel, for their generosity and hospitality as hosts. Our special thanks also go to Rachelle Axel, Director of Public & Private Partnerships, SFAC, Kate Patterson-Murphy, Director of Communications, SFAC and Geraldine O'Brien, alongside the World Cities Culture Forum team, for their dedication and diligence in organising the Summit.

We are really grateful to Bloomberg Philanthropies for their longstanding support and particularly this year for supporting our Leadership Exchange and the World Cities Culture Report.

And finally, thank you to you – our members. I am delighted to see our network and influence grow and our relationships deepen. Our network is full of inspiring leaders and your participation embodies our values of global collaboration – something that is more important than ever today.

So I encourage you to share your ideas and challenges and provoke debate – we are all here to learn from one another and ultimately create a better world.

Have a wonderful time in San Francisco and enjoy the Summit.

Chair, World Cities Culture Forum
Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London's Office
The World Cities Culture Forum is global leadership on culture. It can be summed up in five words. Leadership, Evidence, Inspiration and Global Collaboration.

Leadership

Our members are some of the most informed and influential cultural officials in the world. They know that leadership is necessary in order to make cities more vibrant, inclusive and liveable. The Forum allows members to share their experiences and develop the knowledge they need in order to exercise that leadership.

Since the nine founder cities met in London in 2012, the Forum has grown rapidly. It now includes 38 members from leading cities around the world:

Global collaboration

We are a collaborative network of major cities seeking to advance the case for culture across all areas of urban policy.

Once a year we come together for the World Cities Culture Summit. Hosted on a rotating basis by member cities, this unique gathering allows city leaders to share ideas and knowledge about the role of culture in building sustainable cities. This is supported by an ongoing programme of themed symposia, regional summits and policy workshops.

Members learn from each other by examining common challenges and dilemmas and comparing approaches to cultural investment and development. We share our successes, learn from our mistakes and together build the arguments we need to reposition culture in global cities. In 2017 we launched our pilot Leadership Exchange Programme, supported by Bloomberg Philanthropies and Google Arts & Culture. This programme is designed to enable direct exchanges between cities, to be a catalyst for positive change and to help cities develop dynamic solutions to shared challenges.

Evidence

Evidence is essential if we are to achieve our goal. But culture is hard to measure in a way that does justice to the breadth and sophistication of its impact.

We are building an evidence base about the many and wide-ranging ways in which culture affects a world city and its inhabitants.

The landmark World Cities Culture Report is at the heart of our research programme. It is the most comprehensive report of its kind, showing that, across the globe, culture is as important to the world city as finance and trade. It shows that culture plays an integral role in shaping the identity, economy and quality of life of world cities.

Our Policy and Practice Series is the latest strand in our programme; a series of in-depth investigations focusing on shared challenges and showcasing effective responses and case studies from our city members. We have published policy handbooks on Making Space
They include a series of case studies that identify the ingredients that make policies or programmes work, helping policymakers to better understand the options available to address these issues.

Innovation

All around the world, culture is having an extraordinary and far-reaching impact on cities and their people. The results are extensive and profound. From workspace for artists in Toronto, Sydney's cultural infrastructure plan, tourism in Amsterdam and urban renewal through street art in Bogotá to broadening access to culture for all in London and civic-led engagement in Seoul.

We want everyone involved in city leadership – government, business, development, education, health – to understand the essential contribution culture makes to prosperity and quality of life. We want the widest acknowledgement that in a globalised world, no city can be without it.
At the World Cities Culture Summit we encourage a spirit of openness and honesty. We learn from both our mistakes and our successes. And one of the main benefits of the Summit is the opportunity to hear about others members’ experiences in a truthful way, away from the pressure of media or political scrutiny.

We want you to share the mistakes you have made, the challenges you have faced and the tactics you have used to overcome obstacles. In order to achieve an environment where members feel safe enough to talk about their experiences we need everyone to respect confidentiality.

We would like to remind all attendees that we work under Chatham House Rules. This means that all participants are free to use the information received, but neither the identity nor the affiliation of speakers or participants may be revealed. This also extends to how we communicate about the Summit via Twitter, Facebook and other social media. Please ensure that you respect the confidentiality of all participants in all communications.

Finally, we encourage everyone to listen carefully. We come from all the corners of the globe. Our passion for culture in our cities binds us together. But there are also many differences in our professional backgrounds, national cultures and political operating contexts – all of which influence the way we interpret the world and act within it. We encourage you to be mindful of these differences and learn from them. Have a wonderful Summit!

Opening Plenary
If technology and culture are the answer, what are the big questions for cities?

World cities operate on a quadruple bottom line - cultural, economic, environmental and social - with technological innovations pushing forward these four areas, providing cities with incredible new opportunities. But technology is not an answer in and of itself; we must ask ourselves, what are we trying to achieve by bringing together culture and technology?

Location: Curran Theatre

Key questions:

- What is your city government trying to achieve by bringing together culture and technology?
- Which challenges, relating to civic engagement, cultural participation and creativity & innovation, is technology best placed to address?
- Has your city combined technology and culture to address a key challenge successfully? Or have you faced unsuccessful outcomes?
- Is the potential of technology changing your city’s policies towards culture?
- Is the union of culture and technology a false promise?

World Cities Culture Forum Update

A brief summary and update on WCCF’s activities, focusing on the two policy strands, Culture and Climate Change and Making Space for Culture, and the pilot Leadership Exchange Programme, supported by Bloomberg Philanthropies and Google Arts & Culture. There will be a panel discussion and Q&A with cities that took part in the Leadership Exchange Programme.

Selected Leadership Exchanges:

- Not-for-profit creative placemaking organisation Artscape, hosted Austin, Amsterdam, London, New York, San Francisco, Sydney and Warsaw in Toronto to share strategies to retain and grow affordable creative spaces.
- London visited New York City to explore their innovative ‘Materials for the Arts’ programme, where waste materials from different sectors are diverted from the waste stream and repurposed by schools and cultural non-profits.
- Buenos Aires worked with London to explore London Borough of Culture, to inform their Barrios Creativos programme, shining a spotlight on local culture and getting citizens involved with culture on their doorstep.
- Sydney and Toronto are collaborating in a two way city-to-city exchange, sharing new ideas for celebrating Aboriginal communities and promoting their visibility.

10:50 - 12:30
Plenary on Equity and Diversity

Starting with San Francisco’s own pro-active policies, this session will examine what world cities are doing to promote greater cultural equity and diversity. It will acknowledge and explore the different understandings of equity and diversity across city members of the Forum.

Location: Contemporary Jewish Museum

Key questions:

- What does cultural equity and diversity mean in your city?
- What initiatives and programmes are under way in your city to address cultural equity and diversity?
- What is the role of city government, do we need to lead, or make space for grassroots activity to support increased equity and diversity?
- How do world cities meet the needs of their diverse and changing populations?
- Is technology an enabling or limiting force for cultural equity and diversity?
- Do city governments need to address trust as a barrier to cultural equity and diversity?

Public Session: World Cities Culture Report 2018 Launch and panel discussion, Cities, Culture and Technology – what does the future hold?
New digital and data-driven technologies are transforming world cities at unprecedented speed and in ways which we do not yet fully understand. As we have seen in recent years, these transformations have equal potential to unite or to divide and to have positive or negative impacts on the lives of citizens.

In this session we reflect on what we have learnt from each other and look to the future and ask, how can we realise the true potential of culture and technology in our cities?

Location: Wilsey Opera Center Atrium Theater, Veterans Building (4th floor)

Key questions:
• How can culture and technology transform our cities for the better?
• What is the role of the artist in the future of the city?
• How is technology transforming our physical experience of culture?
• How are cities addressing prejudice in AI? What are the new barriers to participation that technology creates?
• How can city leaders design city government policies and programmes to keep pace with future and changing technologies?
• What is at risk if technology is not embedded in our thinking as policy makers?

Participants
Touria Meliani, Deputy Mayor for Arts & Culture, Heritage and Digital Affairs, City of Amsterdam

Touria Meliani has more than 12 years of experience in the Dutch and Amsterdam cultural sector, including stewarding the development and directing the Tolhuistuin – one of Amsterdam’s premier cultural centres. Before being appointed as Deputy Mayor of Amsterdam, she was also active in various civil society roles – including board memberships of the Dutch national remembrance and liberation days committee, the ieder1 foundation and memberships of selection committees at the Dutch Fund for Performance Arts and the Dutch Fund for Creative Industries.

Olga Leijten, Director, Department of Arts & Culture, City of Amsterdam

Olga Leijten has been the head of the Arts & Culture office of the City of Amsterdam since July 2014. Olga started working for the city in 2001 as a board advisor for City of Amsterdam in several Aldermen on different topics including arts and culture (including the privatization of the City Theatre, the Stedelijk Museum Amsterdam and the Amsterdam Museum), education, youth affairs and civil assimilation. She joined the Arts & Culture office in 2007 focusing on a wide array of topics and projects, including the design of the City’s cultural development strategies and major cultural developments including the Stedelijk Museum Amsterdam and the City Theatre.

Araf Ahmadali, Policy Advisor, Arts & Culture and World Cities Culture Forum Associate, City of Amsterdam

Araf Ahmadali is a policy advisor for Arts and Culture at the City of Amsterdam, with experience in making policies on international cultural affairs, funding, entrepreneurship and creative industries and a passion for creative (and digital) innovation and music production. Araf was the project manager of the Amsterdam World Cities Culture Summit 2014 and in 2015, as part of a secondment, joined the Mayor of London’s Culture Team as World Cities Culture Forum Associate.

Arts & Culture office of the City of Amsterdam

The Arts & Culture office is responsible for the City’s local, urban, regional, national and international cultural policies with an annual budget of €145 million. Its main objectives include:

- The strategic development, implementation and evaluation of the City’s arts and culture policies
- Annual funding for over 150 cultural organisations and support of cultural venues (in partnership with the Amsterdam Fund for the Arts)
- Granting subsidies to the Amsterdam Public Library, the Public Broadcasting Company of Amsterdam, the Amsterdam Fund for the Arts and the Amsterdam Expert Centre for Cultural Education (Mocca)
- The development and maintenance of cultural buildings in Amsterdam
- Partnerships in different policy processes with for example the Education, Economic Affairs, Urban Planning, Environment, Communication, Citizenship, External and International Affairs offices of the City of Amsterdam
Meghan Wells, Manager, Cultural Arts Division, Economic Development Department, City of Austin

With 19 years of experience in nonprofit and cultural programming, Meghan Wells currently serves the City of Austin as the Economic Development Department’s Cultural Arts Division Manager. She is responsible for developing arts, culture and creative industries as economic development strategies, overseeing current programs and services for the creative community, facilitating planning and integration of initiatives into larger civic and community efforts, and seeking innovative policies to advance local, regional, and national arts conversations.

Wells previously served the Division’s Art in Public Places (AIPP) program for eleven years. During her tenure, the program commissioned over 70 new permanent artworks and over 30 temporary artworks through the TEMPO (temporary public art) program, established the first Pre-Qualified List of artists, and worked with private developers to include public art in new commercial and residential projects.

In early 2016, Wells shifted her focus to addressing affordability issues facing Austin’s arts community. She was a lead contributor to the Music and Creative Ecosystem Stabilization Recommendations report, which called for a mix of City-led initiatives, public-private partnerships, and community supported actions to retain and sustain the artist community. In addition to administering a $12 million annual investment in local arts, she spearheaded the first Artist-in-Residence program within Austin city government, oversaw the completion of a citywide Cultural Asset Mapping Project to identify additional strategic arts-led investment opportunities, and collaborates with Partners in Sacred Places and the Austin Independent School District to maximize use of untraditional arts spaces.

Prior to joining the City of Austin, Wells worked with the USS Hornet Museum and the Missouri School Boards Association. She holds a B.A. from Rockhurst University, and M.A. from Texas Tech University. She is a member of the Americans for the Arts United States Urban Arts Federation.

City of Austin, Economic Development Department

The City of Austin has established itself as a world leader in technology, innovation, energy, workforce development, music and creativity that has led to significant business expansion and overall growth. The City’s Economic Development Department offers a unique model – one of just a few in the United States that presents opportunities for Austin through collaborative, cross-sector work. To effectively support and recruit business in Austin, the Economic Development Department has integrated a core global focus while supporting local initiatives through Cultural Arts, Music, Redevelopment/Downtown, and Economic and Small Business Programs. It strives to create a sustainable cultural and economic environment that enhances the vitality of Austin. Strategic areas of cultural and economic advancement include:

- Global Business Expansion: create jobs in Austin through business attraction and assist local businesses with international expansion and trade
- Redevelopment: facilitate sustainable growth of underutilized downtown assets in partnership with the community and project developers
- Small Business Program: foster job creation and support the growth of new and existing businesses by providing capacity building resources
- Cultural Arts Division: encourage a strong cultural economy through cultural development, cultural contracts with nonprofit arts and individual artists, creative industries, and public art

- Music & Entertainment: serve as a resource on live music issues and implements emergent music industry development programs

EDINBURGH

Frank Ross, Lord Provost, City of Edinburgh

As part of the Capital Coalition, Frank was the Leader of the SNP Group and Deputy Leader of the Council. He was responsible for taking forward the Coalition’s pledges and providing political leadership to ensure Edinburgh’s continued prosperity. In cooperation with his Coalition colleagues, Frank led on the Council’s strategic direction and was a main spokesperson for the Council. Prior to being elected as Leader of the SNP, Frank held the role of Economy Convener. He is also a Director of Marketing Edinburgh and a Council Representative on the Bio Quarter Advisory Board. These companies assist in delivering economic growth and development across Edinburgh. Frank has been a key figure in major Scottish businesses, working in the manufacturing/engineering sector of industry, mainly in Scotland, for a range of blue chip companies such as Racal, Chubb, Tomkins and Motherwell Bridge. An accountant to trade (FCMA) Frank worked his way up to operate at the highest managerial level in these organisations. More recently Frank has operated as a self employed Interim Manager focussing on company turnarounds. This allowed Frank to become more politically active resulting in his election to the Council in 2012. On 18 May 2017 Frank was elected Lord Provost and Lord Lieutenant of the City of Edinburgh.

Lynne Halfpenny, Director of Culture, Place Directorate, City of Edinburgh Council

Lynne has 30 years’ experience of successfully working in the cultural sector in Scotland. She began her career at the 1986 Commonwealth Games Arts Festival as Marketing Officer and International Artist Liaison Lead. Lynne went on from there to the west coast of Scotland to run an Arts Centre and community festivals and events before returning to Edinburgh in 1989 to take on the role of Arts Officer with Edinburgh’s local authority. Most recently Lynne has been appointed as Director of Culture with a responsibility for a staffing complement of 180, cultural venues, the civic museums service, arts, festivals and events and public safety for the Council. Edinburgh’s reputation as a cultural and heritage destination continues to grow and joint approaches to monitoring this reputation is key. The most recent example of this saw a new Culture Plan for the city adopted, following a major public engagement exercise. This process led to a call for the creation of a Culture Task Group to oversee and ensure that the cultural life of the city is protected and nurtured. The leaders of this group come from the private, public and voluntary sectors of Edinburgh. In September this group was invited to assist in the development and realisation of a city vision for Edinburgh which places Culture at its heart. Throughout Lynne’s career, partnership working has been a watchword, critical to a range of successes especially working with Edinburgh’s Festivals and cultural venues to ensure that they continue to thrive and act as local, national and international beacons of success.

He previously worked with Festivals Edinburgh on Cultural Diplomacy, and project managed the establishment of Marketing Edinburgh. A co-founder of the Edinburgh Living Lab, he is a former Board Member of Digital Leaders Scotland, and the Cities Standards Institute. He is a BSI Committee Member on Smart Cities. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce (RSA).

City of Edinburgh Council

The City of Edinburgh Council is the second largest council in Scotland and the ninth largest in the UK, with a workforce of 19,000 employees and a budget of around £1 billion for the financial year 2015/16. The Council is committed to playing a dynamic role on the local, national and international stage and has a strong commitment to corporate management, a willingness to innovate and a determination to set the highest standards.

The Council plays a central role in shaping the continued success of Edinburgh as a 21st century capital city. Our responsibilities are wide-ranging, from schooling through to social work, housing, economic development, parks and green spaces, culture and sport, festivals and events, roads and transport.

The Council’s Culture Division plays a crucial role in Edinburgh’s cultural offering. It runs 15 Museums and Galleries, Scotland’s only 5 star graded international concert hall, and a number of flexible events spaces. In total, these venues attract over 1 million visitors a year. It also is responsible for over 200 monuments, an award-winning outreach and public access programme, the delivery of major and civic events throughout the year and cultural policy development. In addition, it provides vital funding to cultural partners including Edinburgh’s internationally renowned 12 festivals, a range of theatres, visual arts and community groups.

Lagos State Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture

With its vision to make Lagos State one of the top three destinations in Africa, the Lagos State Ministry of Tourism, Arts and Culture has the responsibility to formulate, execute and monitor policies relating to the tourism sector and the creative industries. The ministry also promotes investments and regulates operations in the Tourism, Hospitality, Entertainment and Culture sub-sectors in the state. In the last three and half years the ministry has adopted the popular buzzword coined by the Governor – Tourism Hospitality Entertainment and Sports for Excellence (Project T.H.E.S.E) as its focus. The ministry is fulfilling its mandate; changing the profile of the state into that of a city with a vibrant artistic soul. The state’s landscape is being beautified daily with iconic statues and public art installations. Six new 500-seater theatres are being built simultaneously across the state to expand the frontiers of opportunity for talented youths; the Onikan-Marina axis is being turned into an arts district with its first major offering, the J.K Randle Centre for Yoruba Culture and History, nearing completion. With a Calendar of Arts Events released in January to aid planning and visits around the state, the ministry believes it will always give visitors a reason to spend an extra day or two in exploring this smart megacity that is full of fun.

Culture in the Municipality of Lisbon

The Municipality of Lisbon’s mission for Culture is to promote the cultural fruition and diversity in the city, as well as to facilitate and to give better conditions for the creation, production and promotion to cultural agents. To this end, we have defined the following objectives: to promote access to culture and cultural growth; to disseminate the cultural offer; to encourage cultural creation; to rehabilitate and protect the material and immaterial cultural heritage; to internationalize the city and its cultural agents and to promote and to value the transversal dimension of culture. The City's Office for Culture establishes and develops the essential conditions in the city for music, theater, dance, visual arts, literature, design, cinema, public art and shows in public spaces to be created and to happen, and enables the operation of archives and libraries. Lisbon's mission and objectives for Culture are addressed via two different bodies: by DMC – Direção Municipal de Cultura, within the municipality's structure, and by EGEAC, a public company at an arm's length to the municipality. The Municipality of Lisbon's approach to Culture envisions a city that thinks, creates and shares Culture.

LONDO

Justine Simons OBE, Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London's Office and Chair, World Cities Culture Forum

Justine has worked for the Mayor of London for over 15 years and has played a central role in the cultural revitalisation of London. She was awarded an OBE by Her Majesty the Queen in 2015 for Services to Culture in London. She believes culture is central to London's success as a global city and has the power to transform lives and places.

During her time at City Hall she has shaped a strategy to establish London as a leading global creative capital. Culture is the number one reason people visit London. It is the third biggest film city, a leading fashion capital for both men's and womenswear and has the biggest design festival in the world. Justine staged the capital's biggest ever festival for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games with over 5000 events and established the Fourth Plinth as a global exemplar for public sculpture.

As Deputy Mayor she is pioneering groundbreaking cultural policy. From the first ever Cultural Infrastructure Plan, to Cultural Enterprise Zones – dedicated areas to support artists, a new London Borough of Culture Award to celebrate the best of London's neighbourhoods and the UK's first Night Czar to champion the night time economy. She also chaired the commission that put the first ever statue of a woman on London's Parliament Square.

Justine founded and is Chair of the World Cities Culture Forum – an influential network of 38 global cities championing the pivotal role of culture.

Jackie McNerney, Senior Manager, Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London’s Office and Project Director, World Cities Culture Forum

Jackie is Senior Manager, Culture and Creative Industries in the Mayor of London's Culture unit where she leads the team's international strategy and programmes including the World Cities Culture Forum. Jackie also leads the team’s operations and governance function and is overseeing the GLA’s involvement in the major capital project to redevelop the Museum of London at West Smithfield Market. Previously, Jackie has worked in a variety of cultural organisations across the UK. Her last job, as Chief Operating Officer at the Serpentine Gallery, included working on the lead up to the opening of the new Serpentine Sackler Gallery. Jackie was Administrative Director of the Manchester International Festival, a biennial commissioning arts festival presenting world premieres in Manchester and then touring them internationally. She has worked in a number of theatre organisations as General Manager of the Lyric Theatre Hammersmith and touring theatre company Kneehigh and as Head of Operations for the Royal Shakespeare Company. Jackie is also a school governor.
Laia Gasch, Special Advisor to the Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London’s Office and Director of Global Partnerships, World Cities Culture Forum

Born in Barcelona and living in London for more than 25 years, Laia Gasch is a cultural activist and anthropologist. She is the special advisor to the Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries in London, where she has helped position culture as an essential ingredient in the capital's strategic policies. She has developed new and bold initiatives including the creation of the Night Czar to champion the night time economy, the establishment of ‘Creative Enterprise Zones’ to retain and attract artists in the capital and long term investment for a London Games Festival as part of the creative industries portfolio. She has been instrumental in ensuring culture is firmly embedded in the planning strategy for London with new policies to protect and grow culture and heritage in the capital; she has championed informal culture and instigated the first ever Cultural Infrastructure Plan. She is also Director of Global Partnerships for the World Cities Culture Forum, a network of 38 global cities that champion culture and innovation in urban policy. Previously, she was a creative producer for the London 2012 Olympic Games developing large scale interventions and international exchanges, was a project manager for the BBC developing the award winning BBC Blast programme, and had led projects for a number of like-minded organisations including Tate Modern, Southbank Centre and London International Festival of Theatre.

Shonagh Manson, Assistant Director, Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London’s Office

Shonagh Manson joined the GLA in October 2017 as Assistant Director for Culture and Creative Industries. Overseeing the Mayor’s Culture Strategy for London, she supports a team of 28 working on major new initiatives including London Borough of Culture, Creative Enterprise Zones, a new Creative Land Trust and the Mayor’s vision for equality in cultural participation and the creative workforce. Shonagh was previously Director of Jerwood Charitable Foundation where she worked with national organisations to found a range of cross-disciplinary artist development programmes.

Greater London Authority

The Greater London Authority (GLA) is a strategic authority with a London wide role to design a better future for the capital. It supports the work of the Mayor of London, helping his office to develop and deliver strategies for London. It also supports the London Assembly in their role of scrutinising the work of the Mayor and representing the interests of Londoners. While the Mayor and the London Assembly are elected by Londoners, the staff of the GLA are a permanent body that provides continuity in the ongoing development and delivery of strategies for London. It is their role, regardless of the political background of the Mayor, his team or Assembly Members, to make sure that the work they do on behalf of London is of the highest standard that this great city deserves.

MAYOR OF LONDON
Danielle Brazell, General Manager, City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA)

Danielle Brazell is the General Manager of the City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA), reporting directly to the Mayor and leading a full time staff of 64 and a part-time staff of 80. Brazell directs and works with the progressive arts agency’s Public Art, Grants Administration, Community Arts, Performing Arts, and Marketing and Development Division Directors to oversee a $42 million portfolio of facilities, programming, and initiatives providing arts and cultural services in Los Angeles. Prior to being appointed to this position in the summer of 2014, Brazell was the Executive Director of Arts for LA, a regional advocacy organization working to foster a healthy environment in which arts and culture may thrive and be accessible to all in the region. During her tenure, she transitioned the organization from an ad-hoc steering committee comprised of local executive arts leadership, to a highly visible arts advocacy organization serving the greater Los Angeles region. Under her stewardship, Arts for LA became a formidable coalition advancing the arts in the largest county in the country. Brazell’s additional professional experience also includes working as the Artistic Director of Highways Performance Space and as the Director of Special Projects for the Screen Actors Guild Foundation. She serves as a board member of Americans for the Arts and DataArts.

W.F. Umi Hsu, Senior Project Manager, Design Strategy and Research, City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA)

W.F. Umi Hsu (pronouns: they/them) leads design strategy, digital and data initiatives at the City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs. Hsu is a strategic designer and public humanist working to advance research and organizing agendas for equity in arts, technology, and civic life since 2004. They advise Cultural Research Network, Center for Cultural Innovation, LA Counts, Arts for LA, and Society of Ethnomusicology. Hsu has received fellowships and awards from National Endowment for the Arts, American Council for Learned Society, Shuttleworth Foundation, GovTech, and LA Metro and teaches at ArtCenter College of Design and USC Marshall School of Business. With a PhD in Critical and Comparative Studies from the University of Virginia Music Department, Hsu leads two projects: LA Listens, a community engagement platform that reflects on LA’s changing sensory and social ecology; and mobile placemaking collective Movable Parts. Their academic research on street sound cultures in postcolonial Taiwan explores street sound cultures in relation to the urban underclass experience of city development, mobility, and technology. Hsu also plays in Bitter Party, an LA-based ethnographic art band.

City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA)

As a leading, progressive arts and cultural agency, DCA empowers Los Angeles’s vibrant communities by supporting and providing access to quality visual, literary, musical, performing, and educational arts programming; managing vital cultural centers; preserving historic sites; creating public art; and funding services provided by arts organizations and individual artists.
Formed in 1925, DCA promotes arts and culture as a way to ignite a powerful dialogue, engage LA’s residents and visitors, and ensure LA’s varied cultures are recognized, acknowledged, and experienced. DCA’s mission is to strengthen the quality of life in Los Angeles by stimulating and supporting arts and cultural activities, ensuring public access to the arts for residents and visitors alike.

DCA advances the social and economic impact of arts and culture through grantmaking, public art, community arts, performing arts, and strategic marketing and development. DCA creates and supports arts programming, maximizing relationships with other city agencies, artists, and arts and cultural nonprofit organizations to provide excellent service in neighborhoods throughout Los Angeles.

New York

Tom Finkelpearl, Commissioner of Cultural Affairs, City of New York Department of Cultural Affairs

Tom Finkelpearl is the Commissioner of the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs (DCLA). In this role he oversees City funding for nonprofit arts organizations across the five boroughs and directs the cultural policy for the City of New York. Under his leadership, DCLA has embarked on major new efforts to advance equity in the cultural sector, including the launch of a cultural workforce diversity initiative to promote a more inclusive arts sector; inviting the University of Pennsylvania’s Social Impact of the Arts Project to examine the effects of culture on New York’s communities; and, alongside Mayor de Blasio, releasing CreateNYC, NYC’s first-ever comprehensive cultural plan. Building on feedback from nearly 200,000 New Yorkers, CreateNYC lays out a blueprint for expanding on the unparalleled strengths of the city’s cultural sector, while targeting investments to address historically underserved communities across all five boroughs.

Prior to his appointment by Mayor Bill de Blasio in 2014, Commissioner Finkelpearl served as Executive Director of the Queens Museum starting in 2002, overseeing an expansion that doubled the museum’s size and positioning the organization as a vibrant center for social engagement in nearby communities. He also held positions at P.S.1 Contemporary Art Center (now MoMA PS1), and served as Director of the Department of Cultural Affairs Percent for Art program. Based on his public art experience and additional research, he published a book, Dialogues in Public Art (MIT Press), in 2000. His second book, What We Made: Conversations on Art and Social Cooperation (Duke University Press, 2013) examines the activist, participatory, coauthored aesthetic experiences being created in contemporary art. He received a BA from Princeton University (1979) and an MFA from Hunter College (1983).

Mayor London N. Breed, City and County of San Francisco

Mayor London N. Breed is the 45th Mayor of the City and County of San Francisco and the first African-American woman Mayor in the City’s history. Prior to being elected by voters in the June 2018 election, she served as Acting Mayor, leading San Francisco following the sudden passing of Mayor Edwin Lee.

Mayor Breed is committed to addressing the most critical issues facing San Francisco residents. She is focused on providing care and shelter for the City’s homeless population, creating more housings for residents of all income levels, improving public safety, and supporting San Francisco’s education and public transportation systems.

Mayor Breed served as a member of the Board of Supervisors for six years, including the last three years as President of the Board. During her time on the Board, Mayor Breed passed legislation to create more housing along transit corridors and prioritize residents for affordable housing opportunities in their communities. She helped to reform the City’s emergency response systems, fought for funding for San Francisco’s homelessness support network, and enacted the strongest Styrofoam ban in the country.

Mayor Breed is a native San Franciscan, raised by her grandmother in Plaza East Public Housing in the Western Addition. She graduated with honors from Galileo High School and attended the University of California, Davis, earning a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science/Public Service with a minor in African American Studies. She went on to earn a Master’s degree in Public Administration from the University of San Francisco.

As the Director of Cultural Affairs, he oversees the San Francisco Arts Commission (SFAC), the $24 million City agency that champions the arts as essential to daily life by investing in a vibrant arts sector, enlivening the urban environment and shaping innovative cultural policy. Before being appointed Director of Cultural Affairs by Mayor Ed Lee in 2012, DeCaigny was an independent consultant and strategist in the fields of arts and culture, youth development and education. He served nine years as Executive Director of Performing Arts Workshop, a San Francisco-based organization dedicated to helping marginalized young people develop critical thinking, creative expression and essential learning skills through the arts. He helped found an arts middle school for youth in the juvenile justice system, managed the AIDS Memorial Quilt’s National Youth Education Program and conducted research for the National Committee for Responsive Philanthropy. He currently serves on the Executive Committee of the U.S. Urban Arts Federation and is a prior board member of the California Alliance for Arts Education. DeCaigny has a B.A. degree in Dramatic Arts from Macalester College in St. Paul, MN and currently resides in San Francisco, CA.

San Francisco Arts Commission

The San Francisco Arts Commission is the City agency that champions the arts as essential to daily life by investing in a vibrant arts community, enlivening the urban environment and shaping innovative cultural policy. Our programs include:

- Civic Design Review ensures that all publicly funded building projects are appropriate to their contexts and that structures are of the highest design quality and reflect their civic stature;
• Community Investments administers approximately $8 million in grants through the Cultural Equity Endowment and the Cultural Center Endowment, and the licensing of artist vendors;
• The Public Art Program stewards the Civic Art Collections, which is comprised of over 4000 objects and estimated to be worth more than $90 million; it also administers the City's Art Enrichment Ordinance (2%-for-art program) and artworks commissioned through the Public Art Trust, a community benefit fund derived from the City's 1%-for-art requirement of private development;
• San Francisco Arts Commission Galleries, a nearly 50-year old municipal gallery program with three Civic Center locations, specializes in making contemporary art accessible to broad audiences through curated exhibitions that both reflect our regional diversity and position Bay Area visual art within an international art landscape.

The San Francisco Arts Commission envisions a San Francisco where the transformative power of art is critical to strengthening neighborhoods, building infrastructure and fostering positive social change. We believe the arts create inspiring personal experiences, illuminate the human condition and offer meaningful ways to engage with each other and the world around us. We imagine a vibrant San Francisco where creativity, prosperity and progress go hand in hand. We advance artists' ideas to improve the quality of life for everyone through a united cultural sector whose contributions are vital and valued.

We Value:

• Cultural and racial equity and access to high quality arts experience for all
• The arts as a vehicle for positive social change and prosperity
• Artists as integral to making San Francisco a city where people want to live, work and play
• The arts as critical to a healthy democracy and innovative government
• Responsiveness to community needs

• Collaboration and partnerships
• Accountability and data-driven decision-making

EDC directly operates 10 museums, produces events and community programs, and commissions public art. However, the majority of cultural development is advanced through funding, partnerships, policy and planning, where the City has influence. EDC is currently developing a strategic plan that better integrates culture with economic development to promote employment, inclusion, global investment, and civic and cultural participation.

VIENNA

Dr. Andreas Mailath-Pokorny, Rector, Music and Arts University, City of Vienna

Dr. Andreas Mailath-Pokorny, born in 1959, is a qualified solicitor and graduated from the University of Vienna’s Law Faculty. He went on to study further education at John Hopkins University (School of Advanced International Studies, Bologna Center), where he obtained a degree in International Relations on top of his degree from the Institute of Political Science at the University of Vienna.

Mailath-Pokorny embarked on his professional career in the diplomatic services of the Federal Ministry for Foreign Affairs in 1986. He worked for the Austrian Chancellor Franz Vranitzky as member of his cabinet from 1988 to 1996, his last post there being office manager. He subsequently led the department for Arts Affairs in the Federal Chancellery up until 2001. In 2001, he joined the Vienna city government and became city Councilor for Cultural Affairs and Science. From 2015 onwards, his responsibilities were expanded to cover fields such as sport, information and information communication technology; he held the position of City Councilor until May 2018. Mailath-Pokorny is also president of the Federation of Social Democratic Academics, Intellectuals and Artists. As of the academic year 2018-19 he is the Rector of the Music and Arts University of the City of Vienna.

Music and Arts University of the City of Vienna

In 2005, the Music and Arts University of the City of Vienna (MUK) arose out of the “Konservatorium der Stadt Wien“, which had been part of Vienna’s public music school system for 60 years. The implementation of the Bologna Process in the tertiary education sector in the late 1990s had encouraged the Conservatory’s reorientation: rapid professionalization of teaching, research and management was motivated by the desire for integration into the European Higher Education Area and the ambition to create excellence in music and the performing arts. In June 2005, notice of accreditation issued by the Austrian Federal Ministry completed the “Konservatorium’s” transformation to university status. The Music and Arts University is part of Wien Holding, and falls under the Private Universities Act by law, although in fact it serves the public interest and is operated with municipal funding. This organizational structure offers the opportunity to unite flexibility, autonomy and modernity with the stability of long-term financing.

The Music and Arts University offers diverse and comprehensive training in music, musical theatre, dance and drama. The list of courses encompasses more than 30 Bachelor’s and Master’s degree programmes, academic diploma programmes and preparatory courses. Each year approximately 850 students from 60 countries study at the MUK.

Department of Cultural Affairs, City of Zurich

Cultural promotion is a central public task for the city government of Zurich, the largest city in Switzerland. It guarantees diversity, high quality and innovation, especially through the possibility of experiment, failure and new beginnings. The City of Zurich supports culture with net expenditure supporting culture fluctuating between 1% and 1.5% of the total urban expenditure. The budget of the Department of Cultural Affairs is about €130 million. The department is under the presidency of the city council. Its main tasks are:

- Promotion: the city of Zurich promotes cultural activities in the areas of theater, e-music, jazz/rock/pop, literature, fine arts, dance and film with production contributions and deficit guarantee. Around €9 million are available for this purpose.
- Institutions: the City of Zurich supports unique and outstanding institutions. There are around 90 million euros available for the subsidies of cultural institutions.
- Own activities: the City of Zurich runs its own institutions (a museum, a theatre and a cinema) and organises its own festivals (including, among others, the Zurich theatre spectacle).

Richard Naylor, Director of Research, BOP Consulting

Richard supervises all BOP's major research projects, ensuring BOP's methods are analytically rigorous and appropriate to the task in hand. His work has broken fresh intellectual ground in fields such as the development of frameworks for measuring the economic and social impacts of cultural activities. Richard has over twenty years of contract research experience in both consultancy and academia. Before joining BOP in 2002, Richard spent five years as Research Associate with the Centre for Urban and Regional Development Studies (CURDS) at Newcastle University, and two years at the University of Westminster undertaking research projects on the audio-visual sector. He was elected a Fellow of the RSA in 2007 and is a member of the UK Evaluation Society.

BOP Consulting

BOP Consulting specialises in culture and the creative industries. We built up our expertise in the UK and we work across the world. We understand how culture enriches people's lives and how culture and the creative industries make economies competitive. We are expert in measuring the social and economic value of both. Underpinning all BOP projects is our commitment to robust evidence and sustainable delivery models.

BOP's clients are governments, private businesses, cultural organisations and their funders. We help them to write strategies and to plan for the future. We work with our clients to build new partnerships and to deliver new projects. We help them to understand and communicate the value of what they do.

Kate D. Levin, Principal, Bloomberg Associates (New York) and Advisor, World Cities Culture Forum

Kate D. Levin is a principal at Bloomberg Associates, a philanthropic consulting firm created to collaborate with mayors in cities around the world on improving quality of life for their citizens. She also oversees the Arts Program at Bloomberg Philanthropies. Previously, Levin served as Commissioner of the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs from 2002-2013, during which time she participated in early conversations that led to the creation of the World Cities Culture Forum. The inaugural fellow of the National Center for Arts Research (NCAR) at Southern Methodist University, she has taught at the City University of New York, worked for several arts organizations, and served in the New York City mayoral administration of Ed Koch.

Tracey Knuckles, Cultural Assets Management, Bloomberg Associates (New York) and Advisor, World Cities Culture Forum

As a member of the Cultural Assets Management discipline, Tracey helps cities develop strategies for strengthening the creative sector, and optimizing its impact through economic development, cultural marketing and tourism initiatives, and other key civic projects. Prior to joining Bloomberg Associates, she served as Deputy Commissioner & General Counsel for the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs (DCLA), the nation’s largest funder of the arts. At DCLA, Tracey managed the agency’s core operations and guided the agency through a host of strategic reforms and programmatic initiatives. A trusted advisor to the Commissioner, elected officials, and community stakeholders, she provided guidance on topics ranging from non-profit governance and capital project management to land use and public art. Before DCLA, Tracey was an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Eastern District of New York, and served as Deputy Chief of the Asset Forfeiture Unit. Prior to that, she was a litigation associate in private practice. Tracey earned a Juris Doctor from Tulane Law School and a Bachelor of Arts in English from The University of Virginia.
Guest Speakers
Alonzo King, Founder and Artistic Director, Alonzo King LINES Ballet

King has been called “a visionary choreographer, who is altering the way we look and think about movement.” King calls his works ‘thought structures’, created by the manipulation of energies that exist in matter through laws, which govern the shapes and movement directions of everything that exists. Named as a choreographer with "astonishing originality" by the New York Times, Alonzo King LINES Ballet has been guided by his unique artistic vision since 1982.

King has works in the repertories of the Royal Swedish Ballet, Frankfurt Ballet, Ballet Bejart, Les Ballets de Monte-Carlo, Joffrey Ballet, Alvin Alley American Dance Theater, Hong Kong Ballet, San Francisco Ballet, Hubbard Street Dance Chicago and many others. He has collaborated with distinguished visual artists, musicians and composers across the globe including Pharaoh Sanders, James Campbell, Hamza El Din, Pawel Szymanski, Jason Moran, Charles Lloyd and Zakir Hussain. Renowned for his skill as a teacher, King was honored with the Lifetime Achievement Award by the Corps de Ballet International Teacher Conference in 2012. An internationally acclaimed guest ballet master, his training philosophy undergirds the educational programming at the Alonzo King LINES Dance Center of San Francisco, which includes the pre-professional Training Program, Summer Program, and BFA Program at Dominican University of California.

King's work has been recognized for its impact on the cultural fabric of the company's home in San Francisco, as well as internationally by the dance world's most prestigious institutions. Named Choreographer of the Year by Danza & Danza in Italy and a Master of Choreography by the Kennedy Center in 2005, King is the recipient of the NEA Choreographer's Fellowship, the Jacob's Pillow Creativity Award, the Irvine Fellowship in Dance, the US Artist Award in Dance, NY Bessie Award, and the National Dance Project's Residency and Touring Awards. In 2014, King was appointed to the advisory council of the newly established Center for Ballet and the Arts at New York University; in 2015 he received the Doris Duke Artist Award in recognition of his ongoing contributions to the advancement of contemporary dance. Joining historic icons in the field, King was named one of America's “Irreplaceable Dance Treasures” by the Dance Heritage Coalition in 2015. Christie George, President, New Media Ventures

As President of NMV, Christie has overseen a portfolio of more than 70 nonprofits and for-profits, including Indivisible, SumOfUs, and Upworthy. Christie’s work centers on fostering an independent, vibrant, and diverse media sector. She has spent her career supporting individuals and institutions that are making media that matters — from independent filmmakers documenting powerful stories to social entrepreneurs disrupting the way media is created, distributed and promoted.

Christie started her career at a venture capital firm, spent six years managing sales and marketing for Women Make Movies, the world’s leading distributor of films by and about women, and is a co-founder of Louder, the crowd-promotion platform for ideas that matter. She serves on the board of the Roosevelt Institute and was recently named a Social Citizen Ambassador by the Case Foundation.

Christie holds a BA from Yale University and a MBA with distinction from the University of Oxford, where she was a Skoll Scholar in Social Entrepreneurship and graduated with the Said Prize, awarded annually to the program’s top student. She lives in Oakland and is a proud co-owner of the Rio Theater in Monte Rio, CA.
Neil Hrushowy, City Design Group, San Francisco Planning Department

Neil Hrushowy manages the City Design Group in the San Francisco Planning Department. The City Design Group provides urban design services for the City of San Francisco, combining the disciplines of city planning, architecture and landscape architecture. The City Design Group employs a human-focused and iterative design approach that builds upon how people perceive and use public space, thereby bringing together a social, psychological and cultural understanding to how space works. Its responsibilities include placemaking, design innovation, urban design policy, streetscape design review, and research. Its portfolio ranges from the micro-scale of the parklet, to the neighborhood-wide scale of a public realm plan, to design policy for climate adaptation along the waterfront. Recent projects include: the redesign of Castro Street, Jefferson Street in Fisherman's Wharf, and Broadway through Chinatown; the Groundplay program, which leads the City's temporary urbanism initiatives; and, public realm plans for the Civic Center District and the Central Waterfront/ Dogpatch neighborhood. Neil was also the co-director of the Market Street Prototyping Festival, hosted in partnership with the Yerba Buena Center for the Arts. The Festival brought a competitive, crowd-sourced design approach to one mile of San Francisco’s most important public space – Market Street.

Maria Jenson, Creative and Executive Director, SOMArts

Maria Jenson is recognized as a leader in the arts nationally for advancing innovative strategies to sustain creative communities in the midst of rapidly changing urban environments. Jenson has deepened SOMArts' commitment to racial equity, creating clear pathways for Bay Area artists to incubate new ideas and grow their careers. Through her leadership, Maria has expanded SOMArts' educational and public programs, advanced new public-private partnerships, and fostered groundbreaking exhibitions such as The Black Woman is God, The Third Muslim: Queer and Trans* Muslim Narratives of Resistance and Resilience, and many more. These initiatives further SOMArts’ mission to engage the Bay Area’s diverse cultural communities in inspiring creative encounters at the intersection of art and social justice.

Prior to joining SOMArts, Jenson was a key member of the External Relations team in the Marketing and Communications Division managing the transition, rebranding and reopening of SFMOMA during the museum’s $300 million expansion. Jenson produced the museum’s Economic and Cultural Impact study in collaboration with the Boston Consulting Group, demonstrating the crucial role of cultural institutions in the civic and economic life of San Francisco.

Jenson was the Founding Director of ArtPadSF — an independent art fair launched in 2010 in partnership with Chip Conley. ArtPadSF transformed the Phoenix Hotel into an immersive and interactive platform to engage Bay Area artists, gallerists and art lovers, and enjoyed a successful three-year run that helped to launch the careers of many emerging artists.
A graduate of the 2018 Getty Foundation Executive Leadership Institute, Jenson is a sought-after speaker and thought leader on the role of cultural institutions in fostering a more democratic and equitable society.

Tim Jones, CEO, Artscape

Tim Jones is a champion for the role that the arts play in transforming cities and communities. Under his direction since 1998, Artscape has grown from a Toronto-based artist studio provider to an internationally recognized leader in creative placemaking. The term “creative placemaking” was coined by Tim in 2006 to describe the practice of leveraging the power of arts and culture to act as a catalyst of change, growth and transformation of place. Today, city-builders around the world are employing creative placemaking strategies to make cities more vibrant, prosperous, sustainable and liveable.

Artscape’s work involves clustering creative people together in real estate projects to serve their interests while advancing multiple public policy agendas, private development interests, community and neighbourhood aspirations and philanthropic missions. In Toronto, Tim has built an impressive portfolio of arts centres that provide space to more than 2,300 people working and or living in Artscape properties, including 32 public venues serving more than 240,000 people annually. After playing mentor and coach to organizations and governments in Canada and abroad for many years, Tim and Artscape are beginning to play an active development role in markets outside Toronto. In 2014, Tim was recognized by the Geneva-based Schwab Foundation as Social Entrepreneur of the Year.

Governance and Operation
The World Cities Culture Forum operates as an informal network.

The network is convened by the Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries at the request of the Mayor of London.

Each year a member city is selected by the Summit Advisory Committee through an Expression of Interest application process to host the World Cities Culture Summit.

The host city appoints a local organising committee, which works with the World Cities Culture Forum advisory group, to decide on the content of the Summit.

In 2016, the World Cities Culture Forum set up two advisory committees in order to involve members in co-designing its programme and research. There is an Event Advisory Committee and a Research Advisory Committee with five different cities represented on each committee.

Advisors are expected to propose ideas for events, research programme, key messages for WCCF, the future agenda, and offer feedback on short planning documents and key WCCF documents (e.g. publication prospectus and event programme).

The Advisory Committees include the following city delegates:

Event Advisory Committee
- Tom DeCaigny, Director of Cultural Affairs at City and County of San Francisco
- Mitsuhiro Yoshimoto, Board Member, Arts Council Tokyo; Director of the Center for Arts and Culture, NLI Research Institute
- Lori Martin, Senior Cultural Affairs Officer, Cultural Services, Economic Development & Culture, City of Toronto
- Araf Ahmadali, Policy Advisor, Department of Arts and Culture, City of Amsterdam
- Patrik Liljegren, Deputy Managing Director of Cultural Affairs and Chief of the Cultural Strategy Staff, Culture Administration, City of Stockholm

Research Advisory Committee
- Hae-Bo Kim, Director of Management and Planning Division, Seoul Foundation for Arts and Culture
- Odile Soulard and Carine Camors, Urban Economists, IAU Paris Ile-de-France
- Prof. Changyong Huang, President, Shanghai Theatre Academy; Director, Metropolitan Culture Audit Centre
- Maria Privalova, Director, Nekrasov Central Library
- Alina Bogatkova, Vice Director, Nekrasov Central Library, Moscow
- Bronwyn Mauldin, Director of Research and Evaluation, Los Angeles County Arts Commission

Summit Advisory Committee
- Justine Simons, Deputy Mayor for Culture and Creative Industries, Mayor of London's Office
- Vladimir Filippov, Vice Head, Moscow Department of Labor and Social Protection
- Mijin Nam, Manager of Future Planning Team, Seoul Foundation for Arts and Culture
- Olga Leitjen, Director of the Department of Arts & Culture, City of Amsterdam
- Tom DeCaigny, Director of Cultural Affairs at City and County of San Francisco
Operation and Funding

The activities of the World Cities Culture Forum are organised and delivered by BOP Consulting, a specialist consulting firm, on behalf of the GLA and the members of the Forum.

BOP Consulting has a contract with the GLA to this effect. The members of the Forum individually pay a fee directly to BOP to cover the costs of organising activities and undertaking research.

As well as this basic fee, individual member cities raise funds or pledge in-kind resources from internal and external sources to support the activities of the Forum.
